Letter from Eric Wendt, the U.S. Ambassador to Albania

Dear AmCham Albania members,

The U.S. Embassy in Tirana is assessing ways to make America (and Albania) Stronger, Safer, and more Prosperous. These goals are interconnected and AmCham is poised to open doors for both U.S. and Albanian businesses. For 26 years, this Chamber has helped to grow trade, investment, and job opportunities for Americans and Albanians.

Under President Trump, commercial diplomacy is a key part of America's engagement with the world. We want American firms to have a level playing field in Albania's energy, technology, infrastructure, and tourism sectors.

This past year, AmCham led your first business mission to Washington. You also brought vital expertise to Albania's new foreign investment screening mechanism, which shields strategic sectors from high-risk capital and gives investors clear rules. Building on that progress, we at the embassy are working with the U.S. Department of Commerce's Commercial Law Development Program to establish an Alternative Dispute Resolution Center to resolve commercial disputes faster and more fairly.

While excellent progress has been made, distorted competition and labor shortages sometimes result in an uneven playing field for U.S. businesses and therefore constrain growth. As we move forward, the U.S. embassy will press for a level playing field for U.S. companies as they compete in Albania.

Your experience will shape your input into our embassy's 100-day assessment that will result in the Strategic Approach, our roadmap as we move forward. As we undergo this assessment process at the embassy, we need to understand the business policy barriers you face, along with the feasible solutions you recommend. We will measure success by increased business with American companies, and more jobs, more internships, and more reasons for young Albanians to build their futures in Albania.

It is my privilege to contribute to the 2026 AmCham Yearbook. The U.S. embassy is thankful for the superb work AmCham does in the business lane, and we value your ideas and input as we assess our way forward.

Sincerely,

Eric Wendt

Message from Delina Ibrahimaj, Minister of Economy and Innovation

Dear Members of the American Chamber of Commerce,

It is a pleasure to contribute to this publication of the American Chamber of Commerce and share our perspective on Albania's economic development, ongoing reforms, and emerging opportunities for businesses and investors.

I greatly value our longstanding partnership with AmCham, whose constructive dialogue and practical recommendations have contributed to improving Albania's business climate and strengthening economic ties with the United States.

Albania is entering an important phase of economic development, supported by sustained growth, increasing investment, and steady progress towards European Union membership. With economic growth of approximately 3.8% in 2025 and foreign direct investment inflows reaching EUR 1.64 billion, our country continues to strengthen its position as an attractive investment destination.

In 2027, our priority is to translate reforms into tangible benefits for businesses: simpler procedures, greater legal certainty, a competitive regulatory framework, and new investment opportunities.

A key initiative is the new Law on Investments, currently under public consultation, which aims to establish a transparent and predictable framework for domestic and foreign investors. Alongside this, the recently adopted foreign direct investment screening framework marks an important step towards alignment with European standards, a process in which AmCham has provided valuable input.

We are also modernising the National Business Centre and the Commercial Register while advancing reforms to business-related legislation, strengthening transparency, legal certainty, and the conditions for entrepreneurship and investment.

Innovation, technology, and a skilled workforce are essential to Albania's long-term competitiveness. We are strengthening financial support for entrepreneurs, start-ups, and SMEs, with the establishment of the Albanian Innovation Fund planned for 2027. Investments in vocational education and closer cooperation between businesses, universities, and research institutions will further support productivity and innovation.

European integration is at the heart of our economic transformation and represents one of the most significant opportunities for Albanian businesses. The provisional closure of Chapter 20, Enterprise and Industrial Policy, in October 2026 marks an important milestone in aligning our industrial and enterprise policies with European standards.

Our approach to EU integration extends beyond legislative alignment. We are working to ensure that Albanian businesses are equipped to benefit from the opportunities of the European Single Market, through stronger institutional capacities, improved product and service standards, greater access to information, and support for internationalisation.

An important part of this effort is preparing enterprises, particularly SMEs, to meet EU market requirements, strengthen their competitiveness, develop partnerships with European companies, and become part of regional and European value chains.

Through the EU Growth Plan for the Western Balkans and the Common Regional Market, Albania is also advancing towards gradual integration into the European Single Market. These initiatives offer practical opportunities to facilitate trade, improve market access, and strengthen economic connections across the region and with the European Union.

For international investors, including American companies operating in Albania, this transformation offers a compelling perspective: an increasingly integrated economy, aligned with European standards, with access to expanding markets and new opportunities for investment and cooperation.

Our ambition is to ensure that Albanian businesses enter the European market prepared to compete, grow, and establish lasting partnerships, while positioning Albania as a reliable and competitive destination for international investment.

The American Chamber of Commerce remains an important partner in this transformation. Its expertise and continued engagement help shape policies that respond to the needs of businesses and support sustainable economic development.

Ultimately, the success of our reforms will be measured by concrete results: faster procedures, increased investment, new jobs, stronger enterprises, and a business community ready to seize the opportunities of European integration.

I sincerely thank AmCham, its leadership, and its members for their continued trust and partnership.

Together, we can build a competitive, innovative, and increasingly integrated Albanian economy that creates lasting opportunities for businesses, investors, and citizens.

Letter from the AmCham President, Grant Van Cleve

Greetings.

It has been an amazing year for AmCham Albania. It feels like the combination of good vision, strong team, very functional board, and strong relations with the US Embassy has allowed us to harness this unique geopolitical moment to move forward strongly and entrepreneurially. Events are up in number and attendance. New initiatives abound. And the public and government have noticed.

The chamber has been extremely active. You probably notice the pace in your email InBox: Seminars on capacity building. Committees initiating workshops and panels on key topics. A partnership with CIPE to deliver a series of trainings that both sides feel was worth repeating. The AmCham team has worked hard and functioned well to deliver content that helps you – both leaders and staff of member companies - do what you do well.

Like the new CIPE collaboration, AmCham is partnering with the the U.S. Department of Commerce's Commercial Law Development Program (CLDP) to develop a new Alternative Dispute Resolution center. Arbitration and other forms of business conflict can be solved through professional mediation thus increasing the confidence for Foreign Direct Investment. AmCham has the positioning and skill to host Albania's first such center.

AmCham is also taking it's show on the road. We put together our first 'door knock' mission to Washington DC, USA in June. The board and a number of Premium Members were well received by key government institutions and players, help a reception to greet the business community. After seeing our ability to facilitate such trips we are moving forward with other industry focused trips, like the one for CES in Las Vegas in January.

Undergirding this progress forward has been a parallel increase in the number of committees and the output of each. Our relatively new Tourism and Healthcare committee formed into strong functional forces in their sectors. The new Youth, Entrepreneurship and Innovation Committee (YEIC) formed and has drawn out the next generation and emerging businesses. And at our last Board meeting we approved two new committees that align with growing sectors: Energy and Critical Infrastructure, and Defense and Security.

Each of these five represent the fact that our membership is active. You have raised your hand and said that you want to get involved. Together we are creating entities that have real ability to influence. And the government and other businesspersons are increasingly leaning into these power houses for concrete help. A very sincere thank you to all the members who serve so well in our robust set of committees.

And I want to thank the many key figures in the Albanian government who are making room for the AmCham voice into what their work. We are confident in our public outreach, believing that our voice as leaders in the business community needs to be heard. And we have things to say which aren't always easy for them to hear. Especially the results of our Albanian Business Index. But the government has continued dialogue with us institutionally. And - probably more importantly – many have opened the doors more widely to the committees. The highlights of my year have been roundtables with particular ministers who received our relevant committee and had very active working discussions on how to improve their sectors.

In ending I need to reiterate how important our active and healthy relationship with the American Embassy in Albania has been. We are proud to be a distinctly American chamber. We are honored to be connecting ever more strongly with American government institutions. We believe we are laying the ground works for more American businesses to lay down roots in Albania.

Toward that, I need to express how grateful I am for the tireless work and quick responses of our point person, the Economic & Commercial Officer Andrea Tappmeyer. She and her team have been phenomenal. I also want to highlight the way her boss, the new head of the Political and Economics team, Nick Hasko, has jumped into the role. We're looking forward to great things together in this season. At the same time I thank Nancy VanHorn for her active partnership and friendship while the Chargé d'Affaires, we also welcome the new Ambassador, Ret. Gen. Eric P. Wendt, and look forward to the chance to strengthen even further the key ties between the Chamber and the Embassy.

Letter from the Executive Director, Neritan Mullaj

Dear Colleagues and Friends

As the year draws to a close, it is a moment to reflect on how far we have come, recognize our achievements, and look ahead to the opportunities before us.

For AmCham, 2026 has been an extraordinary year. It began with the celebrations of our 25th anniversary, marking an important milestone in our organization's history. From a community of just 40 members in 2000, AmCham has grown into a strong network of 276 members, representing a wide range of industries and expertise. This growth goes beyond numbers. It reflects the trust we have built and the important role AmCham plays in Albania's business environment.

This year, we also took an important step in strengthening our strategic partnership with the United States. Our Business Mission to Washington was a landmark moment for the Chamber. It was not the beginning of a new relationship, but rather the consolidation and advancement of a partnership built over many years. It reaffirmed our commitment to stronger representation, deeper cooperation, and new opportunities for both business communities.

I would like to express my sincere appreciation to the members of the AmCham Board for their leadership, dedication, and continued commitment to advancing our mission.

My gratitude also goes to the members of our eight active committees. Their expertise and engagement have been essential to our advocacy work and contribution to policy discussions. AmCham has established itself as a strong voice for meaningful public consultation, promoting transparency, constructive dialogue, and effective cooperation between public institutions and the business community.

From digital transformation and cybersecurity to legal certainty and property rights; from healthcare reform to the new legal framework for investments, our efforts have remained focused on one common objective: a more transparent, predictable, and competitive business environment.

This has also been a historic year for the United States, marking the 250th anniversary of its independence. We were proud to celebrate this milestone alongside the Albanian and American communities, recognizing the enduring values and partnership that connect us.

Looking ahead, our ambition is to build on this foundation and take our work further. We must continue strengthening economic ties between Albania and the United States, building bridges across the Atlantic, and creating new opportunities for trade, investment, and cooperation.

The establishment of two new committees, Energy and Critical Infrastructure, and Defense and Security, will expand our expertise and strengthen our contribution to sectors of growing economic and strategic importance.

We also remain committed to advancing major institutional initiatives, including the establishment of an Arbitration Centre to provide businesses with an efficient mechanism for resolving commercial disputes, and the development of Albania's investment screening framework. Through the dedicated work of our committees and our cooperation with CIPE, we have made important progress in advancing these priorities.

As we look to the year ahead, our greatest strength remains our members, our collective expertise, and our shared commitment to making a difference. Every contribution matters, every partnership creates opportunities, and every step forward strengthens AmCham's role as a trusted voice for business.

Thank you for your trust, your commitment, and your continued contribution to this community. Let us move forward with confidence, building stronger bridges between Albania and the United States and creating lasting opportunities for the future.

Thank you for being part of the AmCham journey.

BEST REGARDS,

ADVOCACY AT AMCHAM

Strengthening Dialogue. Shaping Policy. Driving Change.

WE ADVOCATE

In 2025, AmCham Albania advanced an advocacy agenda shaped by its members and committees and approved by the Board. Its work focused on improving the investment climate and ensuring a predictable legal and regulatory framework. Through dialogue with government institutions and Parliament, AmCham brought business experience into discussions on reforms affecting companies' operations and long-term investment decisions.

During the year, AmCham submitted 15 formal legal opinions and policy submissions. These addressed income tax legislation and its implementing rules, double taxation guidance, inspections, environmental regulation, healthcare and other business concerns. Contributions to the Anti-Corruption Strategy and the Medium-Term Revenue Strategy also reflected the importance of transparent institutions and a competitive business environment.

Public consultation remained a central advocacy priority. AmCham consistently called for a more transparent and effective process, with meaningful opportunities for businesses to contribute before decisions are taken. On investment legislation, it recommended a comprehensive framework for foreign investment screening aligned with EU standards and continued gathering member input on the proposed implementing rules.

Tax and customs advocacy combined institutional meetings with written recommendations and follow-up on members' practical concerns. Results included changes to the VAT treatment of services supplied to clients abroad and reduced development fees for energy infrastructure and other projects. AmCham also raised issues concerning income tax implementation and maintained engagement with the Ministry of Finance and the tax and customs authorities.

Sector advocacy translated members' expertise into recommendations for reform. AmCham finalized a Tourism Position Paper and presented healthcare proposals addressing access to treatment, pricing policies and the regulatory environment. It also contributed to discussions on personal data protection and investment-related legislation. Across these engagements, AmCham advocated for rules that support fair competition, encourage investment and enable businesses to plan with greater confidence.

Tax and Customs Committee

In 2025, the Tax and Customs Committee was led by Chair Alketa Uruçi and Vice-Chair Olta Kaziaj. Throughout the year, the Committee served as a key platform for conveying members' concerns and advocating for the business community in dialogue with the Ministry of Finance, the General Directorates of Taxation and Customs, and Parliament. Its work focused on promoting greater clarity, predictability, and consistency in the tax and customs framework, combining legislative recommendations with constructive dialogue on practical compliance challenges affecting businesses.

The Committee organized workshops on income tax, customs and VAT, including exchanges with EU experts. Business forums and stakeholder meetings provided opportunities for members to discuss practical difficulties with the institutions responsible for applying the rules. It also contributed to the Medium-Term Revenue Strategy 2024–2027 and consultations on legislation affecting investment and business operations.

Advocacy results included amendments to the VAT treatment of services supplied to clients abroad and reduced development fees for energy infrastructure and other projects. Engagement with public officials also increased awareness of the tax issues raised by AmCham members.

Cooperation with the Legal and Investment Committees helped connect tax policy with wider business priorities. Support from AmCham's leadership and collaboration with the U.S. Embassy reinforced the Committee's institutional engagement and its role in representing the membership on tax and customs matters.

Legal Regulatory and IPR Committee

In 2025, the Legal, Regulatory and IPR Committee operated under the leadership of Chair Albana Karapanco, Vice Chair Ened Topi and Vice-Chair Arlind Ahmetaj. Throughout the year, the Committee actively contributed to key legislative and policy discussions, including the draft law on Extended Producer Responsibility, secondary legislation under the Law on Inspections, and the Strategic Package for Public Administration Reform 2024–2030. Through its engagement in consultations with public institutions and relevant stakeholders, the Committee worked to ensure that the perspectives and concerns of the business community were taken into consideration in the development of legislation and regulatory policies, supporting a more transparent, predictable, and business-friendly regulatory environment.

Working with the Digital Committee and the Commissioner, it addressed personal data protection and the methodology for calculating fines. Awareness activities provided guidance on organizational and technical compliance measures. The Committee also strengthened relations with the General Directorate of Industrial Property, supporting cooperation on intellectual property issues.

Investment-related contributions covered amendments to the Law on Foreign Investments, with a focus on the proposed screening mechanism, and the draft law on concessions and public-private partnerships. Other engagements addressed U.S. market access and tariffs, compulsory earthquake insurance for residential buildings, and real estate revaluation.

The Committee also welcomed and met with a University of Cincinnati team. Across its work, it promoted dialogue on legal changes affecting businesses and encouraged members to contribute their expertise to the development of a clearer and more predictable regulatory framework.

Digital Business Committee

Throughout 2025, the American Chamber of Commerce's Digital Business Committee played an active role in advancing the digital transformation agenda, fostering technological innovation, and strengthening collaboration between the private sector and public institutions. In September, the Committee entered a new phase of its development, welcoming Chair Genti Daci and ViceChair Dhimitër Shuli to lead its work and strategic priorities.

As part of Money Week, the American Chamber of Commerce, in cooperation with the Bank of Albania, organized the forum "The Future Is Now: How Innovation Is Reshaping Albania's Financial Services in 2025." Discussions focused on Open Banking, SEPA, and FinTech, highlighting opportunities to modernize financial services, reduce costs, and improve transaction efficiency for businesses.

Another key initiative was the forum dedicated to the New Law on Personal Data Protection, organized in cooperation with the Office of the Commissioner for the Right to Information and Protection of Personal Data. The event focused on raising business awareness of legal obligations, European standards, and measures required to ensure effective data protection.

AmCham also participated in the second edition of Future2Tech, promoting American technology models as frontrunners in artificial intelligence innovation. The panel explored the practical applications of AI in business, particularly in human resources, cybersecurity, and data analytics, while also addressing the legal and ethical considerations surrounding its use. Through practical examples, including Microsoft solutions presented by InfoSoft, the discussion demonstrated the potential of American technologies to enhance productivity and strengthen the competitiveness of Albanian companies.

During the Committee meeting held in September, members discussed key strategic priorities, including improvements to the regulatory framework, cybersecurity, artificial intelligence, data governance, and the promotion of American technologies.

Through these initiatives, the Committee further strengthened its role as a platform for knowledge sharing, innovation promotion, and public-private dialogue, while laying the groundwork for more structured engagement in digital policy development and technological advancement throughout 2026.

Labor & Ethics Committee 2025

Throughout 2025, the Labor & Ethics Committee focused on addressing key labor market challenges, promoting human capital development, and advocating for a more business-friendly regulatory environment in Albania. Under the leadership of Chair Valbona Dode and Vice Chair Endri Çela, the Committee's work was guided by three main priorities, advocacy, training, and networking. Particular attention was given to improving labor legislation, simplifying employee declaration procedures, following up on DIVA implementation and pension reform, and addressing GDPR compliance requirements affecting businesses.

The Committee also emphasized the importance of strengthening HR capacities through training on emerging trends, digital transformation, Artificial Intelligence, talent management, and performance management. A key initiative was the HR Survey conducted among 60 AmCham member companies, which identified the shortage of qualified employees, skills gaps, and the limited adoption of AI in HR as major challenges.

Based on these findings, the Committee explored opportunities to organize an HR Forum and promote knowledge-sharing among businesses. It also identified the complex procedures for hiring foreign nationals as an important concern requiring further dialogue and recommendations to relevant institutions. Through engagement with public authorities, cooperation with other AmCham committees, and exchange of experiences among members, the Committee aimed to strengthen the business community's voice and contribute to practical policy improvements.

Overall, its main objective for 2025 was to support businesses in overcoming workforce challenges while promoting a more competitive, efficient, and future-ready labor market in Albania.

Investment & Trade Committee

In 2025, the Investment Committee operated under the leadership of Chair Adrian Shehu and Vice-Chair Genc Biçoku. Throughout the year, the Committee focused on strengthening Albania's position as an attractive investment destination, with particular emphasis on fostering greater interest and engagement among American investors. Its work prioritized the development of a coherent and predictable legal and regulatory framework, while promoting stronger connections between the business community, investment promotion institutions, and financing partners to support investment opportunities and facilitate sustainable economic growth.

The Committee contributed to AmCham's Economic Conference with political parties and helped shape the approved strategic policy priorities. These connected investment conditions with public consultation, anti-corruption measures, tax reform, human capital and sector development.

Meetings with AIDA brought the private sector perspective into investment promotion discussions. A session with DFC, EXIM and USTDA introduced financing opportunities and support instruments for regional projects. Together with the Legal Committee, the Committee supported advocacy on foreign investment screening and alignment with EU standards.

Preparations for a business mission to the United States included developing the concept and issuing formal invitations, although the U.S. government shutdown prevented implementation. Regional cooperation included discussions with AmCham Montenegro on the Seekintro B2B matching platform. These activities supported the Committee's efforts to expand business connections and promote opportunities for American investment in Albania.

Tourism & Hospitality Committee

The Committee operated under the leadership of Chairman Elvis Kotherja and Deputy Chairman Nikolla Gjoni. It established four sector-specific working groups to consolidate business perspectives and concerns and develop a Position Paper on Sustainable Tourism. Submitted to the Ministry of Tourism, the paper addressed nine key themes structured around four strategic priorities.

The first priority focused on higher-value, year-round tourism through a more diverse offer, longer stays, higher visitor spending and travel beyond the peak season. Improving value for money was central to destination competitiveness.

The second addressed formalization, quality standards and fair competition, including short-term rentals, phased implementation of accommodation classification and certification across the tourism value chain, alongside food safety and consumer protection.

The third focused on a skilled workforce and sustainable employment, linking vocational education with business needs, strengthening practical training and professional certification, improving working conditions and supporting staff retention outside the peak season.

The fourth called for coordinated infrastructure and destination management. Recommendations linked development permits with budgeted commitments for water, sanitation, energy and transport, alongside better waste management and public-private Destination Management Organizations. The paper also proposed measures to mitigate the impact of exchange rate fluctuations on tourism businesses.

Healthcare Working Group

In 2025, the Healthcare Committee was led by Chair Anna Savinkina and Vice-Chair Gentiana Peshkatari. Throughout the year, the Committee actively advocated for healthcare reforms aimed at improving the quality, accessibility, and long-term sustainability of healthcare services in Albania. Bringing together representatives from pharmaceutical companies, healthcare providers, distributors, and medical technology businesses, the Committee provided a platform for diverse industry perspectives to come together, identify common challenges, and contribute to a shared vision for a more efficient, accessible, and sustainable healthcare system.

Access to medicines and innovative treatments was a central focus. The Committee developed recommendations to improve the Reimbursement List and addressed pricing policies and the legal framework. Its proposals called for closer alignment with EU standards, linking the regulatory concerns of member companies with the need to improve care for patients.

Through meetings with the Minister of Health, AmCham presented sector recommendations and maintained dialogue on healthcare reform. The Committee's Position Paper emphasized the importance of a transparent and competitive environment for investment and innovation in healthcare.

By consolidating members' expertise, the Committee provided public institutions with a perspective spanning medicines, healthcare services and medical technology. Its work supported member businesses while keeping patient access and the sustainability of the healthcare system at the centre of its institutional engagement.

This is how the Chamber preserves its independence and can best serve its members.

The Chamber's expenses comprise administrative costs incurred from regular operations, costs of organizing and conducting activities, as well as costs for producing its publications. AmCham is committed to administer the funds with which it is entrusted by its members with great accountability. SPONSORSHIP

The American Chamber of Commerce in Albania thanks all its sponsors and supporters for their support of its activities in 2025 and hopes that the advertising received through AmCham sponsorships influenced the companies that tried to promote their business in Albania.

As it has been the case in previous years, also in 2025, AmCham members have expressed their interest in promoting their businesses in Albania by sponsoring various events organized by AmCham during the year. AmCham Albania is an excellent marketing tool for promoting the names of the companies that support these activities.

The Fourth of July Celebration on the occasion of the American Independence Day, the Gala Dinner celebrating AmCham's 25th Anniversary, and the Economic Conference with Political Parties have been some of the main activities made possible with the generous support of some AmCham's members companies.

As every year, another great tradition at AmCham is the generous support of some of its member companies with their products at the American Independence Day celebration.

We have enriched European business models with local traits, enabled by our teams of experts across countries and industries, and guided by our values and strict standards. Edlira Muka
CEO BALFIN GROUP.

BUSINESS HIGHLIGHTS

30 years of BALFIN, From foundations in Vienna to over 5 thousand employees in 9 countries Balkan Finance Investment Group – widely known as BALFIN Group – is playing its active role as one of the most significant and successful investment groups in Western Balkans for 30 years. It started with Samir Mane dwelling in retail in Vienna, Austria. A TV set was the first item he sold, back in 1993. What followed can only be described as unstoppable growth and diversification. First, the Group expanded to our region, and now its footprint reaches nine countries.

Back to the beginning, real estate was the first sector to join retail in Group's activity. In 2002, its Mane TCI started to develop and build residential, commercial, and industrial buildings in Albania and Austria.

The next milestone was QTU or the first shopping mall in Albania, in 2005. It completely transformed consumer behavior and expectations in the country. The rewarding model was immediately replicated and three of the biggest shopping malls in the region are now owned by BALFIN Group.

The Green Coast by BALFIN Group introduced elite tourism, giving new life to its surroundings. Modern sustainable buildings and infrastructure in a typical Mediterranean landscape would make vacationers feel as if at any of the famous European locations. The Group branched out into banking in 2019 with Tirana Bank. The first private bank in Albania received a boost and last year recorded the fastest growth of the sector in the country.

A somewhat less publicly known industry of BALFIN Group is transportation and logistics, yet its companies move goods across all continents, in partnership with world giants of maritime and land transport. The transportation cycle is complete with storage and customs clearing services, as well as order delivery at the designated destination.

Nowadays, BALFIN Group's portfolio includes commercial activity in real estate, wholesale and retail, banking, asset management, tourism, media, and logistics. It is a trustworthy and permanent partner of domestic and international organizations, such as global leaders of consumer electronics, well-known supermarket chains, prestigious development and construction studios, as well as international banks or financial institutions.

More than 5.000 employees are its driving force, belonging to an environment that enables all individuals to express the best of their abilities, with the highest standards of business and ethics. The economic development and employment generated by BALFIN Group, along with its social engagement have made a tangible impact benefitting the community.

MESSAGE FROM THE CEO

Dear colleagues, partners, and friends,

`Our world is evolving, and with it, the demands on how we build, connect, and sustain the environments that support life. As CEO of this infrastructure construction company, I'm proud to lead a team that doesn't just respond to these demands, instead we anticipate them.

From bridges that unite cities to substations that power entire regions, we work at the core of progress. Our mission is not only to construct, but to contribute, to shape a future where infrastructure uplifts people, protects our planet, and strengthens the bonds between communities.

At the center of our philosophy is a simple truth: we are builders of meaning, not just matter. Each road, each energy project, each public system we create is a legacy in motion, a reflection of our values, our precision, and our purpose.

We operate on five core principles: legacy thinking, human-centered design, integrity in action, cultural awareness, and sustainable innovation. These are not buzzwords. They are the blueprint for every decision we make. They remind us that our work is as much about responsibility as it is about results.

As we expand our presence throughout Albania and abroad, we remain deeply committed to elevating standards in every project we touch. We seek not only to meet expectations, but to set new ones, blending technical mastery with the quiet strength of long-term vision.

I thank each of you who walk alongside us: clients, engineers, planners, partners, and citizens. Together, we're not just building infrastructure. We are building the future.
